Indications

Tamiflu is a prescription medicine used to treat the flu (influenza) in people 2 weeks of age and older who have had flu symptoms for no more than 2 days. Tamiflu can also reduce the chance of getting the flu in people 1 year and older. Tamiflu does not prevent bacterial infections that may happen with the flu. Tamiflu is not a substitute for an annual flu vaccination. Do not take Tamiflu if you are allergic to oseltamivir phosphate or any of the ingredients in Tamiflu.

Important Safety Information

If you have an allergic reaction or a severe rash with Tamiflu, stop taking it and contact your doctor right away. This may be very serious. People with the flu, particularly children and adolescents, may be at an increased risk of seizure, confusion, or abnormal behavior early during their illness. Let your doctor know if you are pregnant, nursing, have heartproblems, breathing problems, a

What is Tamiflu?

TAMIFLU is a prescription medicine used to treat the flu (influenza) in people 2 weeks of age and older who have had flu symptoms for no more than 2 days. TAMIFLU may also prevent the flu in people who are 1 year of age and older.

It is not known if Tamiflu is:

- effective in people who start treatment after 2 days of developing flu symptoms
- effective for the treatment of the flu in people with long-time (chronic) heart problems or breathing problems
- effective in treating or preventing flu in people with weakened immune systems (immunocompromised)
- safe and effective for treating flu in children less than 2 weeks of age or preventing the flu in children less than 1 year of age

Tamiflu does not treat or prevent illness that is caused by infections other than the flu virus, nor prevent bacterial infections that may happen with the flu.

Tamiflu does not take the place of receiving a flu vaccination. Talk to your healthcare provider about when you should receive an annual flu vaccination.

Who should not take Tamiflu?

Do not take Tamiflu if you are allergic to oseltamivir phosphate or any ingredient in Tamiflu.

Before you take Tamiflu, tell your healthcare provider if you:

- have problems swallowing Tamiflu capsules
- have kidney problems or any other medical conditions
- have a history of fructose (fruit sugar) intolerance, because Tamiflu contains sorbitol that may cause upset stomach and diarrhea in people who are fructose intolerant
- are pregnant or plan to become pregnant. It is not known if Tamiflu will harm your unborn baby
- are breastfeeding or plan to breastfeed. It is not known if Tamiflu passes into your breast milk. You and your healthcare provider should decide if you will take Tamiflu while you are breastfeeding

Tell your healthcare provider about all medicines you take, including prescription or over-the-counter medicines, vitamins, and herbal supplements.

Keep a list of medicines you take to show your healthcare provider when you get a new medicine.

How should I take Tamiflu?

- Take Tamiflu exactly as your healthcare provider tells you to. Tamiflu can be taken with food or without weakened immune system (immunocompromised), kidney problems or other medical conditions, as Tamiflu may not be right for you. Also tell your doctor about any medications you are taking or if you've received a nasal-spray flu vaccine in the past two weeks. The most common side effects are mild to moderate nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and stomach pain.

Please see the Tamiflu full Prescription Information for complete important safety information.

You are encouraged to report side effects to Genentech by calling 1-888-835-2555 or to the FDA by visiting www.fda.gov/medwatch or calling 1-800-FDA-1088.

food. There is less chance of stomach upset if you take it with food

- If you miss a dose of Tamiflu, take it as soon as you remember. If it is 2 hours or less before your next dose, do not take the missed dose. Take your next dose of Tamiflu at your scheduled time. Do not take 2 doses at the same time
- If Tamiflu for oral suspension is not available or you cannot swallow Tamiflu capsules, your healthcare provider may instruct you to open Tamiflu capsules and mix the capsules' contents with sweetened liquids such as chocolate syrup (regular or sugar- free), corn syrup, caramel topping, or light brown sugar (dissolved in water)
- If your healthcare provider has instructed you to take Tamiflu oral suspension or open your Tamiflu capsules, read the detailed Instructions for Use in the full prescribing information.

Ask your pharmacist if you have any questions.

What are the possible side effects of Tamiflu?

Tamiflu may cause serious side effects, including serious skin and allergic reactions.

Stop taking Tamiflu and get medical help right away if you get any of the following symptoms:

- skin rash or hives
- blistering or peeling skin
- blisters or sores in your mouth
- itching
- swelling of your face, eyes, lips, tongue, or throat
- trouble breathing
- chest pain or tightness
- Change in behavior. People, especially children, who have the flu can develop nervous system problems and abnormal behavior that can lead to death. While taking Tamiflu, tell your healthcare provider right away if you or your child have confusion, speech problems, shaky movements, seizures, or start hearing voices or seeing things that are not really there (hallucinations).

The most common side effects of Tamiflu when treating the flu include nausea and vomiting. When preventing the flu they include nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, and stomach (abdomen) pain.

Tell your healthcare provider if you have any side effect that bothers you or does not go away. These are not all of the possible side effects of Tamiflu.

Keep Tamiflu and all medicines out of the reach of children.

General information about the safe and effective use of Tamiflu.

Medicines are sometimes prescribed for purposes other than those listed in the patient information leaflet. Do not use Tamiflu for a condition for which it was not prescribed. Do not give Tamiflu to other people, even if they have the same symptoms you have. It may harm them. If you want more information, talk with your healthcare provider.

You are encouraged to report side effects to Genentech by calling 1-888-835-2555 or to the FDA by visiting www.fda.gov/medwatch or calling 1-800-FDA-1088.

HYDRATION

the key to skin that glows from within

Introducing Neutrogena® Hydro Boost Water Gel.

Has your skin started to lose its get up and glow? Dehydration is a common culprit. Formulated with hyaluronic acid, new Hydro Boost is clinically proven to quench skin instantly and release continuous hydration all day. Skin is plump, deeply hydrated, and back to its glowing self.

- Lightweight gel texture
- Oil free

WHAT IS HYALURONIC ACID?

Hyaluronic acid (HA), naturally found in skin, is a powerful hydrator that holds up to 1,000 times its weight in water. It plays a critical role in keeping skin cells* hydrated and "plumped," resulting in supple, youthful-looking skin. We lose Hyaluronic acid over time, but the added HA in Hydro Boost works to help keep skin hydrated and smooth, with a healthy-looking glow.

KHLOE & LAMAR

NEW HEALTH SETBACKS

BY AILI NAHAS

IT'S BEEN A ROUGH FEW weeks for Khloé Kardashian. Since her estranged husband, Lamar Odom, was hospitalized following an Oct. 13 overdose, the reality star became a regular presence at his side—and has had to fight back against online critics judging her every move. Now Kardashian, 31, has been dealt another blow in the form of a painful staph infection—a drug-resistant virus commonly contracted in

"Lamar's cognitive impairment is making his life very challenging," says an insider of Odom's progress. "But he is lucky to have Khloé as his support system."

Kardashian can't visit Odom in the hospital (above) until her infection clears. Meanwhile boyfriend James Harden (right, with Khloé on Nov. 8) "has been very understanding."

hospitals, which can be dangerous. "It's been tough," says a source. "It was an emotional few weeks, and now she's sick." Kardashian is taking antibiotics and is expected to be well soon, but "she is so frustrated by the fact that she was doing something good, and then this happens," says the source.

Meanwhile Odom's recovery presents new challenges. Multiple sources say that the former Los Angeles Laker, 36, is having significant trouble walking and talking, and has suffered memory loss and extreme confusion. Says an insider: "Lamar's life from now on will be very different than the past." Adds the Kardashian source: "He won't leave the hospital for a long time, and when he does, he will need full-time care." Until then Kardashian, who still plans to move forward with the divorce, will be by Odom's side, returning to the hospital as soon as she is healthy. "Without Khloé's support and love, Lamar's recovery would have looked very different," says the insider. "She only deserves praise." With reporting by Pernilla Cedenheim, Melody Chiu and Elizabeth Leonard

Kylie & Tyga's Surprise Bitter Split

They were a match made in Snapchat heaven, but Kylie Jenner, 18, and her 26-year-old rapper boyfriend Tyga have called it quits three months after they went public with the relationship. (By then he'd already tattooed her name on his arm!) Why? "He broke her trust," says a source about Tyga, who has a son, King Cairo, 3, with ex Blac Chyna. Jenner "feels super-betrayed. She plans to erase him from her memory and act like he never existed."

JULIANNA MARGULIES

MY FATHER'S MAGIC

A year after the death of her father, Paul, at the age of 79, the Good Wife star is paying tribute to him with a children's book, Three Magic Balloons. Based on a tale her dad, an advertising executive, philosopher and writer, created for his daughters, the story features three girls whose compassion enables them to meet fantastical creatures. "It would have worked in the '70s when he wrote it, but today, because of things like what happened in Paris, it's a gesture to show children that if you are kind to others, incredible magic can happen," Margulies says. Her dad, who composed the famous Alka-Seltzer jingle, "wanted everyone to have love in their hearts." —JULIE JORDAN

"It feels good to be able to put something out into the world that he wrote," Margulies says.

SOFIA VERGARA'S

GLAM WEDDING FASHION

When it came to creating a bridal look for her Palm Beach, Fla., wedding to Magic Mike star Joe Manganiello on Nov. 22, Sofia Vergara, 43, knew she was going to stay true to herself. "With years [of practice] you realize what is good for you and you should stick with it," she told People in September. And for the Modern Family actress, that means a va-va-voom silhouette and dramatic detailing. The perfect man for the job was Lebanese designer Zuhair Murad, who created a custom couture gown for the star. "I wanted Sofia to look phenomenal on her wedding day, showing off her hourglass physique and enhancing her famous curves," he tells People exclusively of the hand-embroidered silk tulle dress. "She expressly said that she wanted to look sexy." Mission accomplished!

and "sophisticated" look, says designer Mark Zunino. The mini he designed used 62 yards of fabric, and "the skirt was 14 layers of silk sheer organza, shading from white to pale pink," he tells People. But the standout element of the dress was the custom-fitted corset, which Zunino is known for: "She couldn't get over how sculpted the dress was to her body and said, 'I don't want to take it off!'"

JULIANNE HOUGH IN GREASE: LIVE
SHE'S SANDY!

Julianne Hough couldn't wait to step into the shoes of the character made famous by Olivia Newton-John—both her sensible sneakers and her red-hot heels. "I'm excited about both looks. I think that's what is so fun about playing Sandy," the Dancing with the Stars judge, 27, says of transforming from an innocent Rydell High newbie to a sultry vixen in Grease: Live (Jan. 31 on FOX). "You can't be that sweet and not have a sassy side to you. You have to have a balance of both. I think every girl has that combination in them," adds Hough, who announced her engagement to hockey player Brooks Laich in August. "I can't wait to go from young girl figuring out who she is to owning this newfound sex appeal. It's going to be really fun!" —PATRICK GOMEZ

THE WORD Hough will costar with Aaron Tveit as Danny Zuko and Vanessa Hudgens as Betty Rizzo.

3 TRUTHS & 1 LIE

AUTHOR AND TV PERSONALITY BETH STERN, 43, JUST RELEASED HER SECOND CHILDREN'S BOOK, YODA GETS A BUDDY —GABRIELLE OLYA

1. She and husband Howard Stern share a home with 16 cats. "I have 10 foster kittens and six resident cats. I've expanded our foster area into three large rooms because there are so many!"

2. Howard is in charge of naming all their animals. "As soon as a litter arrives, he picks out their names. One day there was Cornflake, Pound Cake, Bagel. I looked at him and said, 'You must be hungry.'"

3. She was obsessed with the book Goodnight Moon when she was a little girl. "I would ask my mom to read it to me every night and couldn't fall asleep unless it was read to me."

4. She never cooks a traditional Thanksgiving dinner. "For us it's Italian night. We do lots of pasta."

THE LIE

3. "Dr. Seuss and Shel Silverstein are my favorite children's [authors]. I still have those books on my shelves."

PERSONAL STORIES ABOUT GIVING BACK

Bloom high-fives a child during a recent visit to a refugee camp in Macedonia.

Orlando Bloom

The actor, 38, will receive UNICEF's Audrey Hepburn Humanitarian Award

I am deeply humbled and honored to be the next recipient of the Audrey Hepburn Humanitarian Award. Her work has moved me and countless others around the globe to help UNICEF put children first. I've seen the work on the ground time and again in refugee camps and in South Africa, Russia, Jordan, Liberia—whether it's through vaccination or getting them clean water or providing a safe place for children to go. Since becoming a father, I have a deeper level of understanding of what's at stake. The key for most of these children is getting them an education so that we don't have a lost generation who are uneducated and become prey to other awful situations. UNICEF needs as much support as possible to continue to save lives. –REPORTED BY CHRISTINA DUGAN

A DOZEN COOL THINGS TO SEE, HEAR, READ AND DOWNLOAD THIS WEEK

The starry cast of the new live production, including an emerald Queen Latifah (third from left) as the Wiz.

PAUL GILMORE/NBC

No. 1 The Wiz Live!

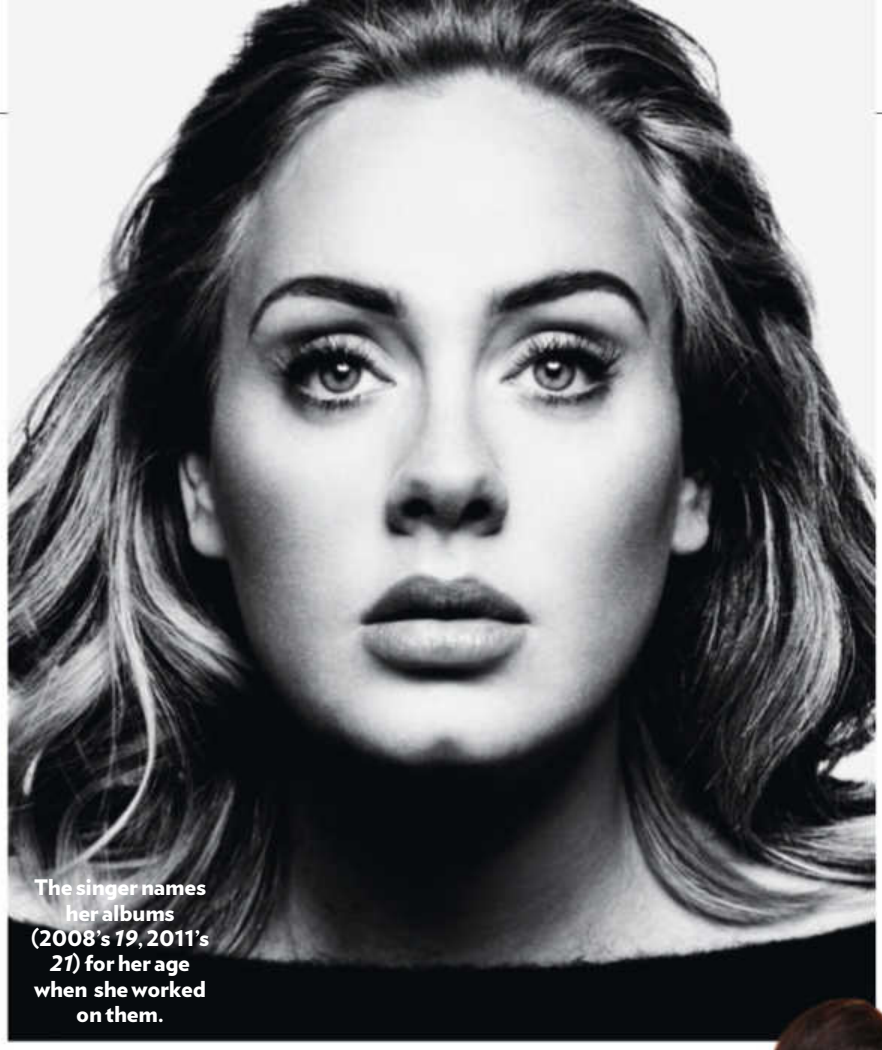

Will NBC ease on down the road with this new version of the beloved 1975 show?

TV MUSICAL After the saggy ratings of last year's Peter Pan—even Christopher Walken's parody of Johnny Depp's Jack Sparrow couldn't keep the dated 1954 musical from feeling like the dried husk of a chestnut—NBC should end up over the rainbow with its live Wiz. The Tony-winning musical, an African-American reimagining of Judy Garland's The Wizard of Oz, also became the enduring 1978 movie with Diana Ross and Michael Jackson. Throw in a cute dog in peril, and what could be more relatable, more resonant? Here we have Queen Latifah as the Wiz, Ne-Yo as the Tin Man and—as always—our own hearts are torn between the Emerald City and (to quote the song "Home") "a world full of love like yours and mine." I want to go there. (NBC, Dec. 3, 8 p.m.)

No. 2 Adele, 25

Four years in the making, her latest is a timeless triumph

MUSIC POP Growing up is hard to do: Just ask Adele. "I'm so mad I'm getting old/ It makes me reckless," the British diva, whose voice is one of contemporary pop's sonic miracles, sings on "When We Were Young," a classic addition to her canon of tearjerkers. As on her first two albums, melancholy and lost love trail her like autumn leaves. But Adele, who is actually a creaky 27, is wiser and happier. On the poppy Max Martin/Shellback collaboration "Send My Love (to Your New Lover)," she's downright chipper. 25 is a cathartic and inspiring listen for anyone, whatever their age may be.

The singer names her albums (2008's 19, 2011's 21) for her age when she worked on them.

Welcome, pardner: Arlo shares a campfire with the big dudes in this adventure (in 2D and 3D).

No. 3 The Good Dinosaur

MOVIE ANIMATED Initially this Pixar cartoon may remind you of the raptor's comment as it dined on a T. rex: "I think I've bitten off more than I can chew." For one thing, it's a dinosaur western. Arlo, a lily-livered homesteader Apatosaurus, gets lost out in a hostile frontier infested with scarily realistic vipers and worse. (Think Jurassic Bambi.) He starves, he whines, he's harassed by pterodactyls and is steered back to civilization (the farm) by a wild, sweet, neander-boy, Spot. The tone is dark, primal, weird—there's an hallucinatory scene involving too-ripe fruit—but ultimately you'll cry like a dino-baby. It's odd, and it's magnificent. (Nov. 25, PG)

No. 4 VH1 Big in 2015 with Entertainment Weekly

TV SPECIAL If VH1 and Time Inc.'s Entertainment Weekly declare that someone was "big" in the year of pop culture, it's a safe bet that they're so gravity-defyingly colossal that, to quote Bill Murray, we fans below are "like ropes on a Goodyear blimp." Honorees include Aziz Ansari, Amy Schumer and the cast of the breakout movie hit Straight Outta Compton. (VH1, Dec. 7, 9 p.m.)

Taraji P. Henson adds to her Empire of accolades.

No. 5 The Danish Girl

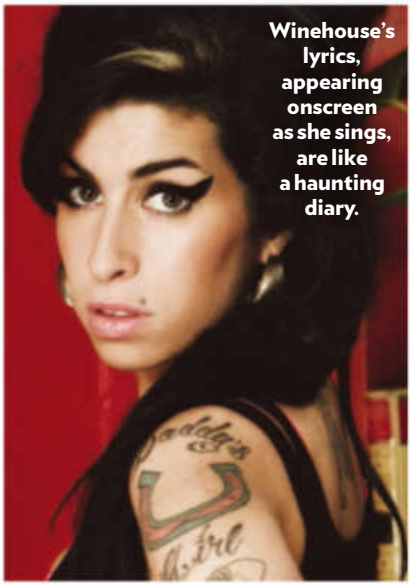

MOVIE

DRAMA A lady's stocking captivates artist Einar Wegener (Eddie Redmayne) in this arresting biopic—not as an object of lust but of recognition. Modeling for his fellow-painter wife, Gerda (Alicia Vikander, see page 59), Einar realizes that he's truly a woman named Lili. And that, even in 1920s Denmark, he must create the body that will fulfill this truth, this destiny. Girl is sumptuous in period detail, with flawless turns from its stars. If there's a frustration, it's that we don't get enough about Gerda. It's her story too. (Nov. 27, R)

Strangers in the night: Pegg and Bell as a couple on an unintended hookup.

No. 8 Man Up

Leave the kids at home—it's date night

MOVIE ROMANTIC COMEDY Nancy (Lake Bell) isn't normally the kind of person who hijacks someone else's blind date, so try not to hold that against her. You won't be able to, anyway: She's too funny and smart. If divorcé Jack (Simon Pegg) could get over the fact that she's not the 24-year-old he expected, he might see that too. Man Up doesn't reinvent the rom-com, it just gives the stars a savvy script and gets out of their way. Bell and Pegg are cunning and charming enough to make even the absurd ring true. (In theaters and on demand, R)

No. 9 Superstore

TV COMEDY Ugly Betty star America Ferrera's new sitcom about megastore employees doesn't arrive until January, but NBC is airing two episodes early. And why ignore a blue-light special? The show takes its time establishing a tone while bringing in a large cast, including Mad Men's Ben Feldman—then the jokes start chiming with a gentle cha-ching. Having loaded a woman's cart with party supplies, Feldman tells her, "I hope your cat has a wonderful birthday." (NBC, Nov. 30, 10 p.m.)

Working girls America Ferrera (left) and Nichole Bloom.

Springsteen, now 66, plunges back into the making of his seminal album The River.

No. 10 The Ties That Bind

TV DOCUMENTARY The River, Bruce Springsteen's 1980 double album, cemented his image as the mournful, working-class troubadour of an America haunted by lonesomeness, wanderlust and an insatiable hungry heart. Pegged to a deluxe boxed set that explores his music from the era, this documentary gives us a plainspoken Bruce, who's looking like Tony Bennett with common-man hair, modestly explaining what he set out to do and did. (HBO, Nov. 27, 9 p.m.)

No. 11 It's Your 50th Christmas, Charlie Brown

TV SPECIAL Is it possible? A Charlie Brown Christmas premiered a full half-century ago: Dec. 9, 1965. Kristin Chenoweth and Matthew Morrison perform in a concert salute to the truly evergreen tale of a round-headed kid and his homely holiday tree (the unforgettable score is by Vince Guaraldi). Then comes the Emmy-winning cartoon. Feel free to cry. (ABC, Nov. 30, 8 p.m.)

Chenoweth pays homage to Charlie, Linus and the tree that just needed a little love.

Carly Simon's sensational secrets, a moody psychological thriller and a failed ballerina's second chance

EDITED BY KIM HUBBARD

Lauren Kessler
Raising the Barre

MEMOIR She was told at 12 that she wasn't ballerina material, so Kessler gave up—until her passion for ballet reignited in midlife. Determined to dance The Nutcracker, she spent nine grueling (and fascinating) months in classes with a professional company. Her book is eloquent, funny and so inspiring that readers might want to "attempt the impossible" too.

Gilly Macmillan
What She Knew

NOVEL Rachel Jenner lets her son Ben out of her sight for just a moment, but it's enough time for him to disappear. In the horror and suspense of the days that follow, as British police race the clock to identify the boy's abductor, Rachel begins to question everything and everyone, not least herself. A nuanced, completely addictive debut.

Carly Simon
Boys in the Trees

MEMOIR Yes, she confirms that "You're So Vain" was about Warren Beatty (well, and two other mystery men). But that's not even close to the most interesting thing in Simon's intelligent, captivating memoir, which begins with her disturbingly sexualized childhood and moves through her rise to folk-rock fame, romantic encounters with Mick Jagger and Jack Nicholson (just for starters) and a tempestuous 10-year marriage to James Taylor. Don't miss it.

NEW IN PAPERBACK

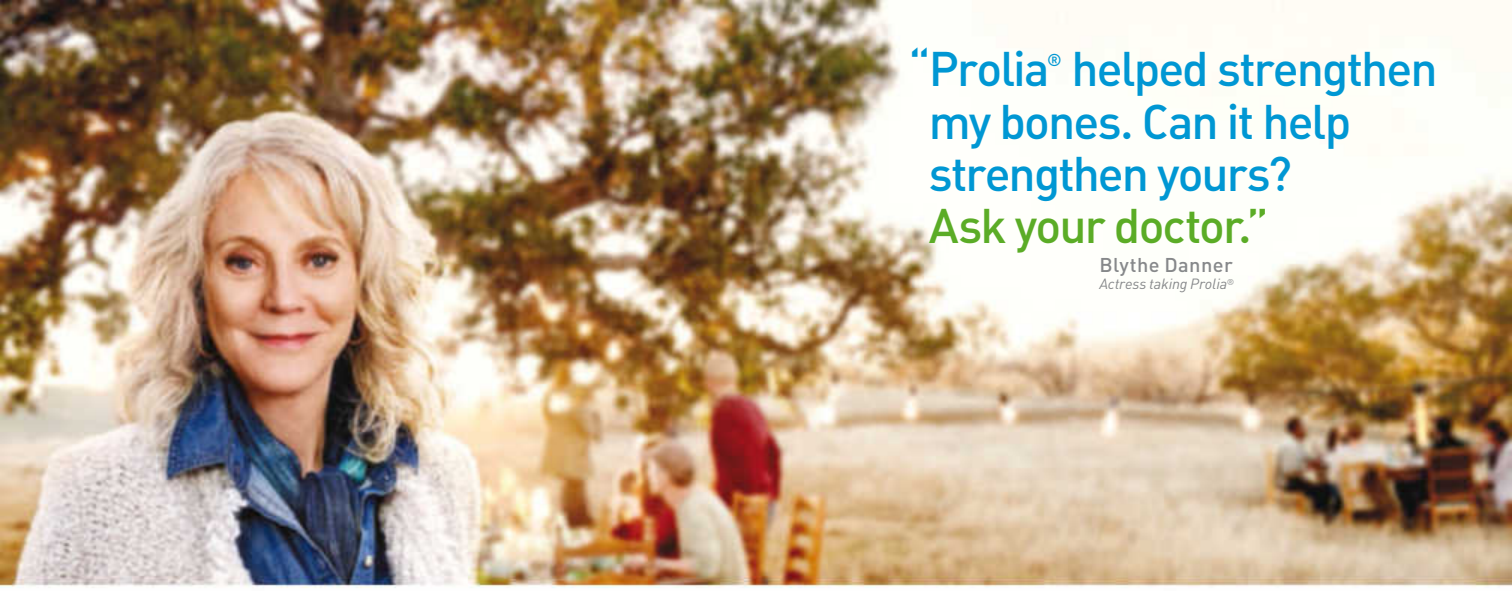

Barbara Leaming

Prolia® is for women with postmenopausal osteoporosis at high risk for fracture. It's proven to help strengthen bones and help increase bone density with 2 shots a year.

Prolia® is a prescription medicine used to treat osteoporosis in women after menopause who:

- are at high risk for fracture, meaning women who have had a fracture related to osteoporosis, or who have multiple risk factors for fracture
- cannot use another osteoporosis medicine or other osteoporosis medicines did not work well

Important Safety Information

Do not take Prolia® if you: have low blood calcium; or are pregnant or plan to become pregnant, as Prolia® may harm your unborn baby; or are allergic to denosumab or any ingredients in Prolia®.

What is the most important information I should know about Prolia®?

If you receive Prolia®, you should not receive XGEVA®. Prolia® contains the same medicine as XGEVA® (denosumab).

Prolia® can cause serious side effects:

Serious allergic reactions have happened in people who take Prolia®. Call your doctor or go to your nearest emergency room right away if you have any symptoms of a serious allergic reaction, including low blood pressure (hypotension); trouble breathing; throat tightness; swelling of your face, lips, or tongue; rash; itching; or hives.

Low blood calcium (hypocalcemia). Prolia® may lower the calcium levels in your blood. If you have low blood calcium, it may get worse during treatment. Your low blood calcium must be treated before you receive Prolia®.

Take calcium and vitamin D as your doctor tells you to help prevent low blood calcium.

Severe jaw bone problems (osteonecrosis) may occur. Your doctor should examine your mouth before you start Prolia® and may tell you to see your dentist. It is important for you to practice good mouth care during treatment with Prolia®.

Unusual thigh bone fractures. Some people have developed unusual fractures in their thigh bone. Symptoms of a fracture include new or unusual pain in your hip, groin, or thigh.

Serious infections in your skin, lower stomach area (abdomen), bladder, or ear may happen. Inflammation of the inner lining of the heart (endocarditis) due to an infection may also happen more often in people who take Prolia®. You may need to go to the hospital for treatment.

Prolia® is a medicine that may affect the ability of your body to fight infections. People who have weakened immune systems or take medicines that affect the immune system may have an increased risk for developing serious infections.

Skin problems such as inflammation of your skin (dermatitis), rash, and eczema have been reported.

Bone, joint, or muscle pain. Some people who take Prolia® develop severe bone, joint, or muscle pain.

Before taking Prolia®, tell your doctor if you:

- Take the medicine XGEVA® (denosumab)
- Have low blood calcium
- Cannot take daily calcium and vitamin D
- Had parathyroid or thyroid surgery (glands located in your neck)
- Have been told you have trouble absorbing minerals in your stomach or intestines (malabsorption syndrome)
- Have kidney problems or are on kidney dialysis
- Plan to have dental surgery or teeth removed
- Are pregnant or plan to become pregnant
- Are breast-feeding or plan to breast-feed

What are the possible side effects of Prolia®?

It is not known if the use of Prolia® over a long period of time may cause slow healing of broken bones. The most common side effects of Prolia® are back pain, pain in your arms and legs, high cholesterol, muscle pain, and bladder infection.

These are not all the possible side effects of Prolia®. For more information, ask your doctor or pharmacist. Call your doctor for medical advice about side effects.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.fda.gov/medwatch, or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

 - trouble breathing
 - throat tightness
 - swelling of your face, lips, or tongue
 - rash
 - itching
 - hives
- Low calcium levels in your blood (hypocalcemia).
 Prolia may lower the calcium levels in your blood. If you have low blood calcium before you start receiving Prolia, it may get worse during treatment. Your low blood calcium must be treated before you receive Prolia. Most people with low blood calcium levels do not have symptoms, but some people may have symptoms. Call your doctor right away if you have symptoms of low blood calcium such as:
 - Spasms, twitches, or cramps in your muscles
 - Numbness or tingling in your fingers, toes, or around your mouth

 Your doctor may prescribe calcium and vitamin D to help prevent low calcium levels in your blood while you take Prolia. Take calcium and vitamin D as your doctor tells you to.
- Severe jaw bone problems (osteonecrosis).
 Severe jaw bone problems may happen when you take Prolia. Your doctor should examine your mouth before you start Prolia. Your doctor may tell you to see your dentist before you start Prolia. It is important for you to practice good mouth care during treatment with Prolia. Ask your doctor or dentist about good mouth care if you have any questions.
- Unusual thigh bone fractures.
 Some people have developed unusual fractures in their thigh bone. Symptoms of a fracture include new or unusual pain in your hip, groin, or thigh.
- Serious infections.
 Serious infections in your skin, lower stomach area (abdomen), bladder, or ear may happen if you take Prolia. Inflammation of the inner lining of the heart (endocarditis) due to an infection also may happen more often in people who take Prolia. You may need to go to the hospital for treatment if you develop an infection.

 Prolia is a medicine that may affect the ability of your body to fight infections. People who have weakened immune system or take medicines that affect the immune system may have an increased risk for developing serious infections.
 Call your doctor right away if you have any of the following symptoms of infection:
 - Fever or chills
 - Skin that looks red or swollen and is hot or tender to touch
 - Fever, shortness of breath, cough that will not go away
 - Severe abdominal pain
 - Frequent or urgent need to urinate or burning feeling when you urinate
- Skin problems.
 Skin problems such as inflammation of your skin (dermatitis), rash, and eczema may happen if you take Prolia. Call your doctor if you have any of the following symptoms of skin problems that do not go away or get worse:
 - Redness
 - Itching
 - Small bumps or patches (rash)
 - Your skin is dry or feels like leather
 - Blisters that ooze or become crusty
 - Skin peeling
- Bone, joint, or muscle pain.
 Some people who take Prolia develop severe bone, joint, or muscle pain.

Call your doctor right away if you have any of these side effects.

What is Prolia?
Prolia is a prescription medicine used to:

- Treat osteoporosis (thinning and weakening of bone) in women after menopause ("change of life") who:
 - are at high risk for fracture (broken bone).
 - cannot use another osteoporosis medicine or other osteoporosis medicines did not work well.

It is not known if Prolia is safe and effective in children.

Who should not take Prolia?
Do not take Prolia if you:

- have been told by your doctor that your blood calcium level is too low.
- are pregnant or plan to become pregnant.
- are allergic to denosumab or any of the ingredients in Prolia. See the end of this leaflet for a complete list of ingredients in Prolia.

What should I tell my doctor before taking Prolia?
Before taking Prolia, tell your doctor if you:

- Are taking a medicine called Xgeva (denosumab). Xgeva contains the same medicine as Prolia.
- Have low blood calcium.
- Cannot take daily calcium and vitamin D.
- Had parathyroid or thyroid surgery (glands located in your neck).
- Have been told you have trouble absorbing minerals in your stomach or intestines (malabsorption syndrome).
- Have kidney problems or are on kidney dialysis.
- Plan to have dental surgery or teeth removed.
- Are pregnant or plan to become pregnant. Prolia may harm your unborn baby. Tell your doctor right away if you become pregnant while taking Prolia.
 - Pregnancy Surveillance Program: Prolia is not intended for use in pregnant women. If you become pregnant while taking Prolia, talk to your doctor about enrolling in Amgen's Pregnancy Surveillance Program or call 1-800-772-6436 (1-800-77-AMGEN). The purpose of this program is to collect information about women who have become pregnant while taking Prolia.
- Are breastfeeding or plan to breastfeed. It is not known if Prolia passes into your breast milk. You and your doctor should decide if you will take Prolia or breastfeed. You should not do both.

Tell your doctor about all the medicines you take, including prescription and nonprescription drugs, vitamins, and herbal supplements.

Know the medicines you take. Keep a list of medicines with you to show to your doctor or pharmacist when you get a new medicine.

How will I receive Prolia?

- Prolia is an injection that will be given to you by a healthcare professional. Prolia is injected under your skin (subcutaneous).
- You will receive Prolia 1 time every 6 months.
- You should take calcium and vitamin D as your doctor tells you to while you receive Prolia.
- If you miss a dose of Prolia, you should receive your injection as soon as you can.
- Take good care of your teeth and gums while you receive Prolia. Brush and floss your teeth regularly.
- Tell your dentist that you are receiving Prolia before you have dental work.

What are the possible side effects of Prolia?
Prolia may cause serious side effects.

- See "What is the most important information I should know about Prolia?"
- It is not known if the use of Prolia over a long period of time may cause slow healing of broken bones.

The most common side effects of Prolia in women who are being treated for osteoporosis after menopause are:

- back pain
- pain in your arms and legs
- high cholesterol

BACK ON TOP WITH 25

Adele INSIDE HER LIFE NOW

After her mammoth smash 21 in 2011, the Grammy-winning superstar is back with 25. Now a mom to a 3-year-old, she says she's no longer drawn to the 'drama' of her early 20s—and is reveling in the happiness of her little family

by MICHELLE TAUBER

She may have a reputation as a reclusive superstar, but Adele rubs elbows with her fellow Londoners all the time. They just don't realize it. Fresh-faced and free of the dramatic eyeliner, fake lashes and big hair that are her style signatures—"borderline drag," as she recently described her stage look—she bops around her hometown with the ease of any other city dweller, visiting her favorite stores, picking up groceries, playing in the park with her son and hitting the gym a few times a week. Although she is rarely spotted out publicly since becoming a mom in 2012, "I'm not a recluse," the singer, who has a warm openness in person, told The Guardian last month. "Can we clear that up? I didn't stop going to shops. To parks. To museums. I just wasn't photographed doing it."

HER STUNNING FOLLOW-UP
"The general reaction to it blew my mind," Adele told the BBC of the response to "Hello," the first single off 25 (above). "It's insane." Below right: Adele with Konecki at the Grammys in 2012.

But if she is an expert at dimming her star power to slip into a crowd, she is even better at making a meteoric impact—inciting global hysteria, oceans of tears and mountains of tweets with the Nov. 20 debut of her third studio album, 25. With its record-smashing first single, "Hello," selling more than 1 million digital copies within its first week of U.S. release, 25 is the most wildly anticipated music-industry moment since the release of Adele's last album, 2011's landmark 21. In a message to fans just after 25's release, the "overwhelmed" artist said she was "grateful to even put another album out, and put it out how I want." Following the runaway success of 21—30 million copies sold worldwide and six Grammys—the 27-year-old superstar admits the pressure to repeat what producer Ryan Tedder calls "a unicorn" of an album was intense. "Because of how successful 21 was, I thought, 'Maybe everyone's happy with that being the last thing from me,'" she recently told The New York Times. "As time went on, I realized I had no choice. I have to write more music for myself, and there's nothing else I want to do."

That's music to her fans' ears, legions of whom proclaimed Nov. 20 "#AdeleDay." During a four-year hiatus in which she focused on family life with her partner, charity executive Simon Konecki, and their 3-year-old son Angelo, her only new release was the 2012 Oscar-winning James Bond theme song "Skyfall." "I took a long time off to be with my son, and our bond was there, and it wasn't going to break," she told iHeartRadio's Elvis Duran Nov. 20. "When you become a mum, a lot of you disappears.... I was ready to say hello to myself again. Hence 'Hello'!"

Now she's back with 11 new tracks—but this time, she has replaced the soul-stirring breakup anthems that defined 21 with songs reflecting the heartbreak of growing up and leaving her carefree years behind. "25 is about how I make myself feel, as opposed to how a horrible boyfriend makes me feel," she told Canada's etalk. "This record is all about yearning for myself and for my friends and for my childhood."

Born Adele Laurie Blue Adkins to 18-year-old single mom Penny in the working-class north London neighborhood of Tottenham, the singer told Duran she "always wanted to be a mum." Angelo, whose name she has tattooed on her right hand—"Paradise" is on her left because "he is my paradise"—changed "literally everything," she added. "You don't understand what a major thing it is to have a child until you do it.... My life is all about him now, when before it was all about me. I never fell so in love, so much."

Explaining her newfound perspective to Britain's I-D magazine, she noted her son's arrival has profoundly reshaped her priorities—including, yes, mellowing some of her proud diva-ness. "Becoming a parent and moving past my mid-20s, I simply don't have the capacity to worry about as many things that I used to really enjoy worrying about. I used to f------ love the drama of it all." Now, happily committed to Konecki, 41, "the drama in my relationship now is like normal

HER GOLDEN TOUCH

A look at some of the singer's career highlights

BREAKOUT MOMENT
Her 2008 Saturday Night Live turn launched her U.S. career. She told the BBC she owed some of her success to Sarah Palin, who helped make the episode a ratings winner.

OSCAR LOVE
She scored a Best Original Song win in '13 for "Skyfall," telling Konecki "I love you, baby" from the stage.

GRAMMY GLORY
After nabbing two awards in 2009, including Best New Artist (inset), she went on to win six for 21 (in 2012).

FAN FAVORITE
She greeted the crowd outside Radio City Music Hall on Nov. 17, where she filmed an NBC special to air Dec. 14.

Adele's 25 THE STORIES BEHIND THE SONGS

1. Hello
2. Send My Love (To Your New Lover)
3. I Miss You
4. When We Were Young
5. Remedy
6. Water Under the Bridge
7. River Lea
8. Love in the Dark
9. Million Years Ago
10. All I Ask
11. Sweetest Devotion

Originally titled "We Ain't Kids Anymore," it's a pop song (Taylor Swift and Britney Spears hitmaker Max Martin produced it) that still delivers an Adele-worthy punch to a former flame: "I was too strong you were trembling/You couldn't handle the hot heat rising."

Written and recorded in one day with Ryan Tedder, the ballad (which is inspired by her son) was a turning point in the making of 25. As she told Rolling Stone: "When I wrote it, I got my confidence back in my writing 'cause I believed in myself."

The song, inspired by Konecki, is "sort of about a relationship suddenly getting really, really serious and then getting a bit frightened by it," she told Rolling Stone, "and then realizing that 'I think this must be right. This is the relationship that I want to be in for as long as I can possibly be in it.' "

"I miss the air, I miss my friends/ I miss my mother, I miss it when/Life was a party to be thrown/ But that was a million years ago," she sings on the nostalgic, last-minute addition she wrote after driving by a park she and her friends hung out in growing up.

A snippet of her son's voice pops up on this ender. "The song is all about my kid," she told USA Today. From mother to child, she sings: "There is something about the way you love me/That finally feels like home."

THE VOICE
"She's a superstar and sassy as f---," Bruno Mars, who co-wrote "All I Ask" with Adele (at the 2013 Oscars), told Rolling Stone.

'IT CHANGED ME COMPLETELY. IN EVERY SINGLE WAY POSSIBLE'

drama," she told Duran. "I love it. It's great."

Recently she's made some healthier lifestyle changes, including quitting smoking, but she told Rolling Stone that when it comes to her body, "I'm curious to know if I would have been as successful if I wasn't plus-size. I think I remind everyone of themselves. Not saying everyone is my size, but it's relatable because I'm not perfect."

When she's not in the studio or enjoying the country home she and Konecki escape to in England, the pop-culture fan unwinds with Teen Mom, The Walking Dead and American Horror Story. "I want to have a real life so I can write records," she told I-D. "No one wants to listen to a record from someone that's lost touch with reality. So I live a low-key life for my fans."

—ADELE, ON MOTHERHOOD, TO GRAHAM NORTON ON NOV. 20

And for herself. "I'm madly in love and I've got a kid.... I'm in the best place ever," she told Duran. As for the exes who inspired some of her biggest hits? "There's a big difference: My man is a man. All the other boys I've been with, they're boys.... I'm done now. I've found it."

Round Up

"We want the world to get to know us better on this third album," says Brian Kelley (left, with bandmate Tyler Hubbard) of FGL's upcoming album, due early next year.

THE DUO REVEAL THEIR MUSICAL MILESTONES—AND WHAT SONG MAKES THEM TEAR UP!

By DANIELLE ANDERSON

FGL recently released their new single, "Confession."

CPI SYNDICATION; SCOTT LEGATO/GETTY IMAGES

Photograph by JEFF LIPSKY

First concert?

TYLER: *NSYNC! That's where all the girls were going that night, so that's where I went as well. It was a good time. I still think they're awesome.

BRIAN: Mine was their old rivals the Backstreet Boys. I went with my best friend for his younger sister's birthday. We took a limo to the House of Blues in Orlando. It was really cool.

First album you ever bought?

TYLER: Tim McGraw's All I Want. That song "All I Want Is a Life" rocked. Not everyone knows that song, but I feel like it was just the jam. I put it on repeat!

BRIAN: One early one I remember was Green Day. I had this big old tower I'd put CDs in. I also had Nirvana, Boyz II Men, Mariah Carey and a whole bunch of Michael Jackson.

What song makes you emotional?

BRIAN: "The Dance" by Garth Brooks. That song is beautiful.

TYLER: I cried the first time I heard the Lee Brice song "I Drive Your Truck." I lost my dad and just connected with that song.

What song would be a fitting soundtrack to your life?

BRIAN: "I'm in a Hurry" by Alabama.

TYLER: Yeah, same for me!

What song is currently stuck in your head?

TYLER: Sam Hunt's "House Party." I heard it this morning, and I'm still singing it.

BRIAN: I'm really digging that song "The Fix" by Nelly and Jeremih.

What's your I-don't-care-who's-watching rock-out-in-the-car song?

BRIAN: It's by Future, and it's called "Stick Talk." I don't know what he's saying half the time, but it makes me really excited. It just makes me want to ride a four-wheeler out in the woods and tear s--- up!

TYLER: Lil Wayne, track No. 3, it's called "I Feel Good."

'The best love song of all time is "When a Man Loves a Woman"'
—BRIAN KELLEY

What's your go-to karaoke song?

TYLER: I don't sing karaoke because it don't pay, but I think I would do "Chattahoochee" by Alan Jackson, and I would crush it.

BRIAN: "Everybody" by Backstreet Boys. Just kidding!

What album would you want with you if you were stuck on a desert island?

BRIAN: If I was stuck on an island with my wife, I would take the Weeknd's album Beauty Behind the Madness because we've got to reproduce, and that's some good reproducing music right there.

TYLER: Thomas Rhett's Tangled Up. I like how literally every song brings out a different emotion. If you're on an island you could dance, you could cry, you could laugh, you could make love. It's all of the above.

GROWING UP DOLLY!

A NEW TV MOVIE TRACES THE SINGER'S POVERTY-STRICKEN CHILDHOOD IN RURAL TENNESSEE

DOLLY'S MINI ME "The coolest thing about playing Dolly Parton was playing Dolly Parton!" says Lind.

"Playing a young Dolly Parton in Coat of Many Colors (airing Dec. 10, 9 p.m. ET on NBC) came with an important life lesson for the film's 8-year-old star Alyvia Alyn Lind. "I learned from Dolly to never give up on a dream," says Lind. "And because of what Dolly has accomplished when all she had in the beginning was love, I learned that with love anything is possible."

The film depicts Parton's hard-scrabble childhood, with Ricky Schroder playing her father, Robert Lee, and Jennifer Nettles as Parton's mom, Avie Lee. "This is about where Dolly comes from and the people who raised her and loved her," says Schroder. Both actors admit to some nerves about taking on the roles. "Dolly told me I always reminded her of her dad," says Schroder. "I was flattered, but of course I felt pressure too." Fortunately, Parton, one of the film's producers, was there to help. "She told me, 'My mama was both lighthearted and serious—she was me without the glitter,'" says Nettles. "That told me what I needed to know!"

Jennifer Nettles and Ricky Schroder play Parton's parents.

Kristian Bush

DOWNLOAD: "Thinking About Drinking for Christmas"

The season of comfort and joy? Not so fast, says Bush, one half of the hit duo Sugarland. Bush's new single, cowritten with Chris Young and songwriter Brett James, is a witty nod to the holiday's not-so-merry moments. "It's about family members who drive you right to the edge of drinking."

Kenny Rogers

DOWNLOAD: "The Light"

Rogers and his bandmates wrote this tune for his sixth holiday album, Once Again It's Christmas, and it's become one of his favorite songs to play on his annual Christmas tour. "It's a wonderful piece of music," he says. "The song really comes to life when you get this 30-voice choir that walks out onstage and sings. Christmas audiences want to feel the Christmas spirit. Merry Christmas is what it's all about."

LeAnn Rimes

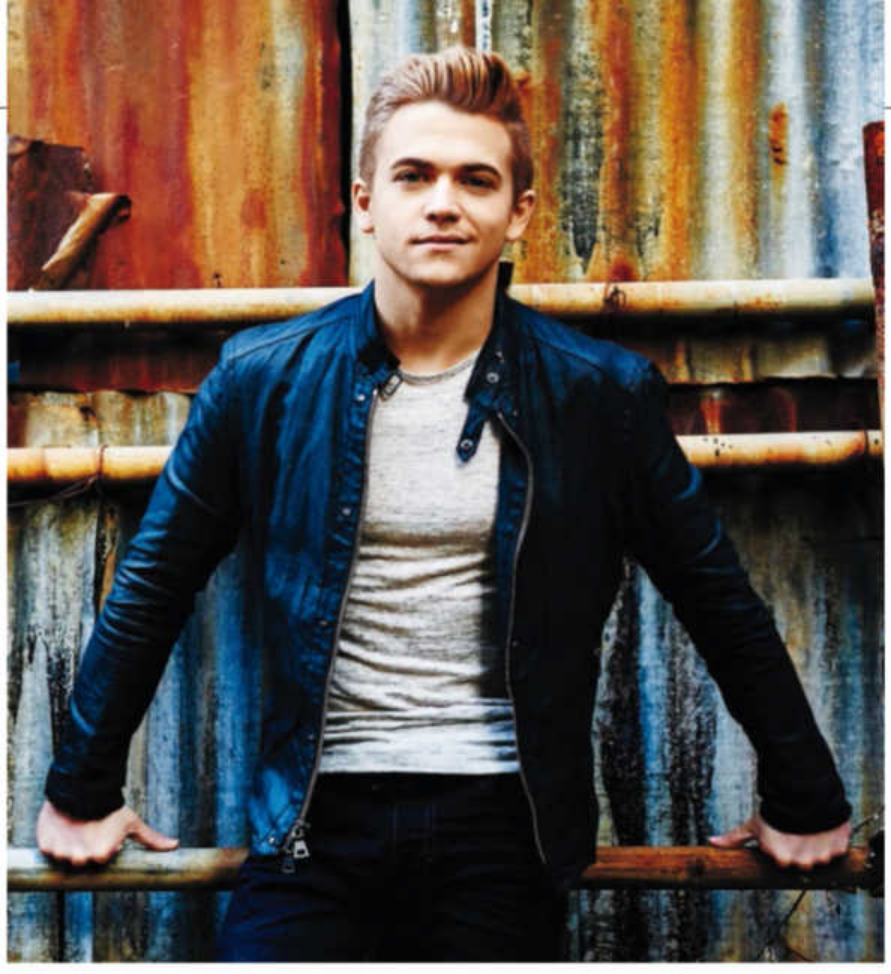

For Rimes this song is all about recapturing the holidays' believe-in-magic spirit. "It came from a very personal place," says the singer, who penned the tune for her new holiday CD Today Is Christmas. "You think you know everything in your teenage years and early adult years. Then you have to deal with the troubles of the world. This song is about not losing that happiness and wonder and bringing back that childlike hope in your heart."

Hayes is one of 14 artists featured in Country Faith Christmas, a collection of favorite holiday songs released in conjunction with the book of the same name by Nashville music journalist Deborah Evans Price. (Carrie Underwood, Brad Paisley, Rascal Flatts and Dolly Parton also take part.) Hayes, fresh off the release of his third solo record, The 21 Project, takes on the Christmas standard "Go, Tell It on the Mountain." "Hunter's song is amazing," says Price. "He has this soulfulness in his voice—this cool vibey sound—that is so unique. He just makes the song his own."

"Bakin' Cookies"

Songwriters Jennifer Denmark, Melissa Fuller and Emily James set out to create a "relatable" holiday song. "The songs I grew up with talked about things like roasting chestnuts on an open fire," says Denmark. "We wanted to sing about things people actually do."

"It's Christmas"

Tomlin's holiday mash-up mixes original lyrics into classic carols "Go, Tell It on the Mountain" and "Away in a Manger." "It feels like a song in a romantic holiday comedy," he says. "It has so many different elements of Christmas in it."

"What Child Is This?" (featuring Martina McBride)

Smith adopted a simple recipe for success when recording this song for his fourth holiday album, The Spirit of Christmas: Pair a big-orchestra sound and McBride on vocals. "I have always been a huge fan, and I think she killed it," says Smith, who worked with other artists on 10 songs for the album. "Martina is a perfectionist like me, but I honestly had really little input. My role was to sing a harmony part with her and just stay out of the way."

This song—one of three original tunes off the band's new holiday album It's Christmas—is a lullaby for an infant Jesus. "We all have kids ourselves," says bassist Nathan Cochran. THIS TIME LAST YEAR, Carrie Underwood was preparing to host "a big mish-mash of people" for Thanksgiving at her Tennessee home—while heading into her third trimester. "I was like, 'I'm literally barefoot and pregnant in the kitchen right now!'" recalls the superstar, who admits she has a hard time "relinquishing control" when it comes to cooking for the holidays. "I've had other people bring food in the past and it kind of bugged me, because I didn't make it and I wanted to," she says. This year she plans to cook at home again, but now that her 9-month-old son Isaiah is "more and more mobile all the time," she's considering asking for help. Well, sort of. "I might tell somebody, 'Bring a salad!' But I do a lot of prep work the night before. I literally chop all my onions, everything, and I'll have them in little Baggies that are labeled in the fridge. I get a lot ready."

It's all in a day's—or holiday's—work for the famously prepared performer, whose perfectionism is as evident in the Tennessee home she shares with her husband of five years, NHL pro Mike Fisher, as it is onstage. But if she's still working on her delegating skills, she has the gratitude front well covered. "It has been such an amazing year in my personal and professional life," says the Grammy winner, 32, who released her fifth studio album, Storyteller, in October and is set to kick off a 2016 tour in January. "I have a lot to be thankful for. I'm excited that this is my life now. It's nice to be able to wake up and be like, 'I'm just so glad that I'm Isaiah's mom.'"

Now that she has a family of her own, she's also eager to start new Thanksgiving and Christmas traditions. "Mike and I need to figure out what they're going to be," she says, noting that they try to alternate between spending the holidays with her family in Oklahoma and his in Canada. "Definitely by the time Isaiah can remember, we need to have some stuff locked down. Things like 'the old Christmas ornaments that we've had forever'—I want stuff like that." One thing they have discussed: "the whole presents thing," she says. "I feel there's a lot of Christmas that has kind of gotten lost. We've talked about not wanting to spoil our kids. We want it to be more about the family and the fun times."

Growing up in Checotah, Okla., "Christmas was at my mom's parents' house," she says. "We would spend Christmas Eve there, and then when we woke up, it was opening presents and lounging around." As for the food at those holidays, she says her schoolteacher mom, Carole, "will be the first to tell you that she's not a good cook. The stuffing was always awful. Every year she'd try something new, and that almost became tradition."

In the years since, she has learned to adapt many of her favorite childhood recipes to fit her ultra-active lifestyle and vegan diet. The chocolate gravy she enjoys as an occasional breakfast treat atop biscuits "is a lot better than the way my mom used to make it," she says. "I use almond milk, and she used regular whole milk. It's still not healthy, but it's a lot healthier!"

Beyond Isaiah's first taste of stuffing this year ("that's an easy one to mash up"), there will be plenty of other holiday firsts with her "sweet guy": his first time on Santa's lap, first Christmas stocking, first time gathered around the tree as a family of three. "I've bought a few things for Isaiah because I was like, 'I really need to go shopping before the rush this year,' but I'm pretty sure he's going to end up with those toys before. It's like, 'Am I really going to make him wait until Christmas?' I think that plan backfired."

Although Fisher's season with the Nashville Predators will keep him on the road for much of the holiday season, she's excited to grab small moments when they can—including their favorite Christmas-morning date, a semitradition they hope to continue. "We'll get up and go to Waffle

CARRIE'S FAVORITE HOLIDAY RECIPES

FROM A COZY LASAGNA TO CHRISTMAS COOKIES—ALL VEGAN!

Oatmeal-Banana-Chocolate Cookies

Makes: 15 cookies
Prep time: 25 minutes
Total time: 1 hour, 20 minutes

- 2 ripe bananas, peeled, sliced and mashed
- 1 cup old-fashioned oats
- ¼ cup coarsely ground pecans
- 2 tbsp. sugar-free chocolate chips
- ½ tsp. vanilla extract
- Pinch of ground cinnamon

1. Preheat oven to 350°. Stir together first 4 ingredients in a medium bowl until blended. Stir in vanilla and cinnamon. Drop mixture evenly by tablespoonfuls 2 inches apart onto a parchment paper-lined baking sheet. 2. Bake at 350° for 15 to 20 minutes. Cool 1 to 2 minutes. Remove cookies to wire rack; cool completely. Store airtight up to 3 days.

Pumpkin-Chocolate Pudding

Makes: 5 (½-cup) servings
Prep time: 15 minutes

- ¼ cup chocolate protein powder
- 2 tbsp. unsweetened cocoa powder
- ¼ cup unsweetened vanilla almond milk
- 1 (15-oz.) can pumpkin puree
- 2 tbsp. pure maple syrup
- ½ tsp. vanilla extract
- ¼ tsp. ground cinnamon

1. Whisk together protein powder and cocoa in a medium bowl. Add almond milk; whisk until blended. Add pumpkin puree; whisk until smooth. Whisk in syrup, vanilla and cinnamon until blended. 2. Spoon into serving dishes. Serve immediately or cover and chill up to 1 day.

House," she says. "It's such a hectic time, and I don't feel like making breakfast on a day that you're just making so much food anyway. So we order breakfast and leave a ginormous tip."

Back at home, she plans to play her favorite Christmas songs. "I love the ones that are more religious," she says. "'O Holy Night,' 'Little Drummer Boy,' 'Silent Night,' songs like that." Plenty of scented candles ("cinnamony or pepperminty or anything that smells like dessert") also help enhance the festive mood, but mostly "it's about being with people you love and celebrating the birth of Christ," she says. Although life is especially hectic right now—after Christmas she's flying to New York to start rehearsals as the headliner of New Year's Rockin' Eve on ABC—she looks forward to a time when things will settle down. "I would love to be able to be with one of our families and wake up and smell breakfast cooking and wander down in our pj's and drink coffee and eat breakfast and cook and laugh and gather around the dinner table and open presents," she says. "It's just all about being together." ●

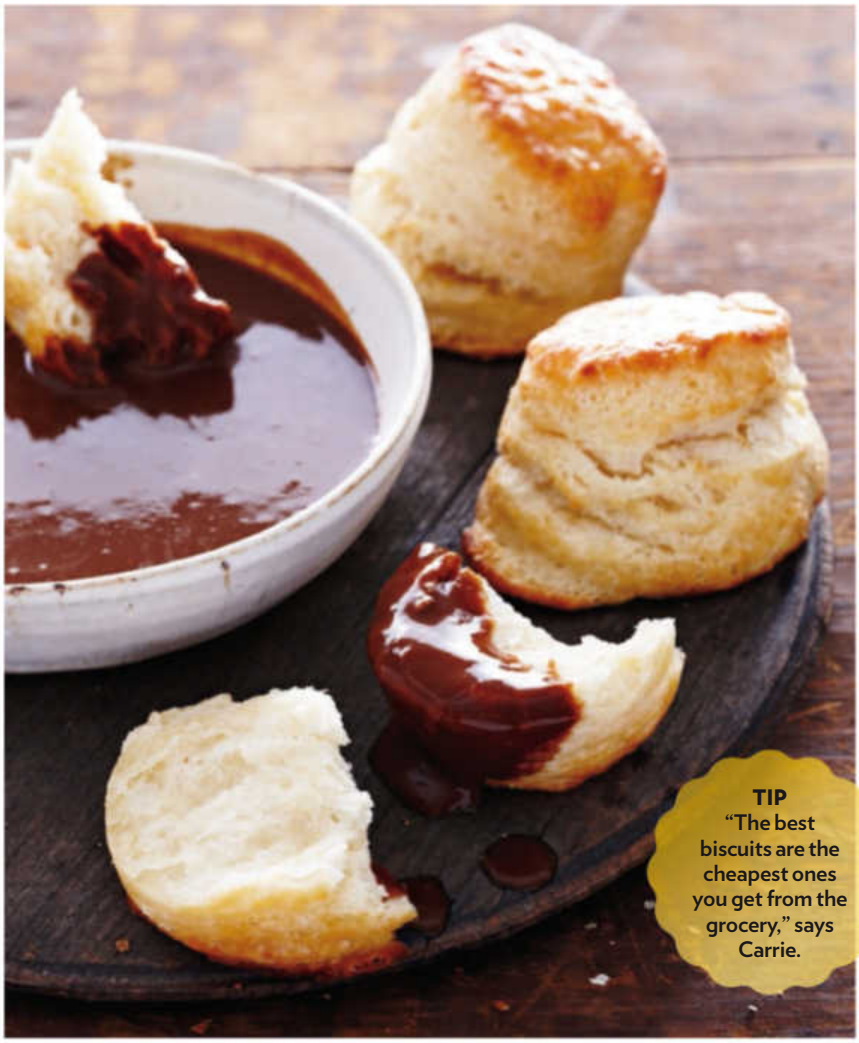

Vegan Slow Cooker Lasagna

Makes: 4 servings
Prep time: 20 minutes
Total time: 5 hours, 20 minutes

- 1 (23.5-oz.) jar reduced-calorie pasta sauce, divided
- 8 oz. oven-ready lasagna noodles, divided
- 1 (8-oz.) package of dairy-free cheddar style shreds, divided
- ½ medium yellow onion, chopped and divided
- 2.5 oz. fresh spinach, divided
- 1 red bell pepper, cored, seeded, chopped and divided
- 8 oz. sliced cremini mushrooms, divided

1. Spoon about 1 cup pasta sauce evenly into bottom of a 6-qt. slow cooker. Top evenly with ⅓ each of noodles, cheddar shreds and vegetables.
2. Repeat process twice using remaining sauce, noodles and vegetables. Cover and cook on low for 4 to 5 hours.

TIP
"The best biscuits are the cheapest ones you get from the grocery," says Carrie.

Buttermilk Biscuits and Chocolate Gravy

Gilbert with pal Kory Potts

Army Sgt. Jonathan Lootens

In His Own Words

"When we sat down to write, the song idea came up and two people came to my mind," Gilbert says: Jonathan Lootens, an Army sergeant killed in Iraq who was the buddy of a friend, and Kory Potts, a childhood pal who died of cancer in 2011. "But one of the things I struggled with was knowing this would stir emotions back up for the families. You never know where someone is in their grieving process, and I don't imagine it ever goes away. So in the beginning I was anxious about singing it. I didn't know how people would respond. We're playing a high-energy set, and all of a sudden I'm going to drop a bomb on everybody? It's hard to take that subject and make a positive message, but that was really the goal. Now I feel like I learn something new every time I sing it."

BEHIND THE LYRICS WITH

BRANTLEY GILBERT

MOVED BY THE DEATHS OF A SOLDIER AND A FRIEND, THE SINGER CELEBRATES THEIR LEGACIES AND FIGHTING SPIRIT IN HIS NO. 1 HIT

One Hell of an Amen

By Brantley Gilbert, Mike Dekle and Brian Davis

"I thought if we're going to talk about real people who don't have a voice anymore and give them a voice, we better make damn sure we're saying something awesome."

Preacher said he died too young
Over there totin' that gun
For Uncle Sam and our freedom.
Mom and Daddy dressed in black.
They folded up that flag,
Handed it to Dad
Started prayin',
Yeah, he went out 21 guns blazin.'

"We wanted to capture the energy and emotion of a military funeral. It's sad, but he went out with a bang. The way a soldier should go."

An' that's one hell of an amen,
That's the only way to go,
Fightin' the good fight.
Till the good Lord calls you home.
And so be well, my friend
Till I see you again,
This is our last goodbye,
But it's a hell of an amen, amen.

"Fighting the good fight is taking whatever battle you've got, giving life hell and going hard till it's your time to go. To me that's admirable."

"We were looking for the good that came out of these two situations: the way they fought and lived their lives. We wanted to give that legacy a platform."

Doctor said he ain't got long,
He just smiled, said "Bring it on.
If you think I'm scared,
You got me all wrong.
A little cancer can't break me,
My heart's right and I believe."
We all hit our knees,
Started prayin'
Naw, he never gave up
Said, "The good Lord's waitin.'"

"We might as well have quoted Kory. When the doctor diagnosed him with leukemia, he looked at his tests and said, 'All right – bring it on.' That's the kind of kid he was – 'OK, that's what we're dealing with, let's go to war.'"

An' that's one hell of an amen,
That's the only way to go,
Fightin' the good fight
Till the good Lord calls you home.
So be well, my friend
Till I see you again,
This is our last goodbye,
But it's a hell of an amen.

"When we play the song, you can feel in the band and in the whole audience, like it helps and heals. I've gotten e-mail after e-mail about it. It's done so much, even for me."

STRONG ICED COFFEE

You know how people order more food than their stomach can handle? I do that for coffee. I order stronger coffee than my body should handle. I end up wired the whole day, hands shaking, and I run all over the place.

SNAPCHAT

I love making goofy faces at my friends and sharing my crazy road stuff with fans. The fans started eating it up, so I'm on it all the time. I like to capture the weirdness of life and the everyday things that are hilarious. I love seeing other people's stories as well. It's just a fun app.

PEANUT BUTTER

I'm addicted to it. It's literally at the point where I'm thinking about taking a break from peanut butter! I love it with honey, and I love it with bananas, and I love it in my oatmeal. . . . It's the best thing in the world. I sometimes just eat peanut butter straight up. It's my guilty pleasure.

SUITS

Tracksuits by day. I like sweatpant track suits; they are really comfy. Then I like to dress it up in real suits at night—I dress to impress at night.

FAMILY

Every year we go to the beach for a few days. My mom cooks something, and we all help out. We play bocce ball on the beach, drink a little bourbon and celebrate being together. What really matters in life is family.

ALICIA VIKANDER

A Most Wanted Woman

THE SWEDISH-BORN ACTRESS CHARMS HOLLYWOOD WITH THE DANISH GIRL

Playing an artist didn't come naturally to Alicia Vikander: "When I hear that somebody has brought Pictionary, and they want to pull it out after dinner, I'm just terrified!" she says. But she learned to sketch like a pro for her role in The Danish Girl, a commitment that's just one of the reasons the Swedish native, 27, is suddenly in demand. Just this year she has played a seductive android (the cult hit Ex Machina), an action-comedy heroine (The Man from U.N.C.L.E.) and, in a role that may make her an Oscar contender, the supportive wife of transgender artist Lili Elbe (Eddie Redmayne) in The Danish Girl. "It's an extraordinary life story," says Vikander. A former ballet dancer, Vikander learned from her stage-actress mother: "When we couldn't get a babysitter, I followed my mom to work," she recalls. "I've always seen how tough the industry is. You can't do it without an immense amount of passion." She's tight-lipped about her personal life (including a rumored romance with Michael Fassbender). "Not really knowing everything about one's private life makes it easier for the profession you do," she says. And it's the transformations that drive her: "You get to see things and go to worlds you would never try."

RINGO STARR & BARBARA BACH

True Love & Treasures

THE BEATLE AND THE BOND GIRL REFLECT ON THEIR 35-YEAR ROMANCE—AND WHY THEY'RE CLEANING OUT THEIR CLOSETS FOR CHARITY

'AND I LOVE HER' Main photo: Bach and Starr on their wedding day in 1981. Inset: The couple at the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in April.

They're one of the few first couples of rock and roll still standing—maybe because the love affair between the Beatle and the Bond Girl didn't happen overnight. Ringo Starr and Barbara Bach first met at Los Angeles International Airport in 1980 before they were costars in the 1981 cult comedy Caveman. It was a first encounter that surprised them both. "They told me it was going to be a small Englishman playing the part . . . then Ringo Starr arrived," says Bach, 69. Starr admits he was smitten from the start, but Bach, best known for her turn in the 1977 007 film The Spy Who Loved Me, was dating someone else. "She tortured me for two months," remembers Starr. "It took us a little while to say hello," admits Bach. "But when we did, we never said goodbye." Fast-forward 35 years: "Guess what? We're still together," says Starr, 75, laughing.

'It took us a little while to say hello. And when we did, we never said goodbye' —BACH

The pair, who married in 1981, attribute their happy romance to one of the Fab Four's singular mantras: Love is all you need. "I love the man, and that's it," says Bach. "There's no escape," says Starr. "I think I love Barbara as much [today] as I did at LAX—and I'm beyond blessed that she loves me and we're still together."

Not that every day is just a love fest. Starr still hits the road regularly with his All Starr Band (most recently for a string of sold-out shows in North America in October)—and spends lots of his "downtime" in the gym. "To have that energy onstage, you have to work at keeping it," says the health-conscious drummer, who has a trainer and works out five times a week. For her part, Bach dedicates time to her charity, the Lotus Foundation, which provides support and funding for a variety of organizations targeting social issues such as substance abuse and battered women and their children. The couple recently sold their English country house and settled in L.A. and are using the move to further their philanthropy. From Dec. 3 to Dec. 5, they're auctioning off a gold mine of memorabilia at Julien's Auctions in Beverly Hills (see sidebar), including a guitar that John Lennon gave to Starr and one of Bach's blouses from The Spy Who Loved Me. "We had a lot of incredible stuff that was just in a bank vault," says Starr. "It's time to let go—and it's all for a good cause."

Rose Kennedy's SECRETS

A TROVE OF PRIVATE TAPES AND AN EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW WITH HER HUSBAND'S MISTRESS SHED NEW LIGHT ON THE LATE MATRIARCH By ELIZABETH McNEIL

STAYING AFLOAT After her sons' assassinations, "I knew if I collapsed it would be more difficult for everyone else," Rose (in West Palm Beach in 1972) told her ghostwriter Robert Coughlan.

THE CLAN

She was the woman behind the world's most famous and glamorous political dynasty, a formidable matriarch whose 104 years included dazzling triumphs and unimaginable sorrows: from her oldest daughter Rosemary's disabilities and disastrous lobotomy to the deaths of four of her other nine children, Joe Jr. in World War II, Kathleen in a plane crash, Jack and Robert to assassins' bullets. But Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy, who died in 1995, has always remained something of a shadowy figure. "She's been ignored by history," says Laurence Leamer, author of three books on the Kennedys. "Yet she's the only person who's lived the whole story—the only one who could speak with honesty and depth about everything that happened."

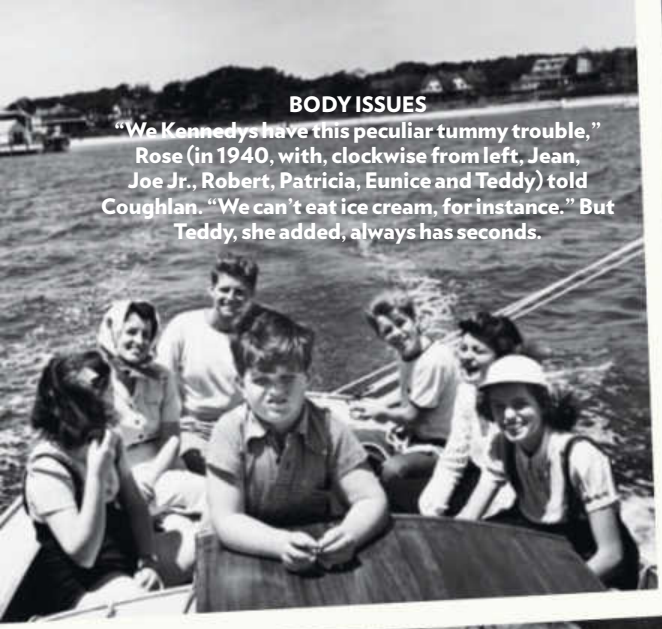

As it turns out, she did, up to a point. For her 1974 memoir Times to Remember her ghostwriter Robert Coughlan amassed 40 hours of interviews with his subject, "but much of what the family considered controversial was left out of the book," says Leamer. Coughlan's widow gave the tapes to Leamer after her husband's death in 1992, and now Leamer's play based on them, Rose, will open on Nov. 29 at the Clurman Theatre in New York City, with Kathleen Chalfant in the title role. The tapes, many of which were never made public, "are as far as Rose goes in revealing her truth," says Leamer. They paint a picture of a fiercely driven woman who admits a "separate existence" from her husband, Joe Kennedy. "She was as ambitious as Joe," says Leamer, "and in a sense even more so because she lived through her children."

PROUD PARENTS

→ WEDDING DAY
"Joe didn't want a cocky or complaining wife," Rose (with Joe on Oct. 7, 1914) told Coughlan. When he was traveling, she said she didn't believe in bothering him to tell him she'd had a car mishap or the children had a high fever.

BODY ISSUES
"We Kennedys have this peculiar tummy trouble," Rose (in 1940, with, clockwise from left, Jean, Joe Jr., Robert, Patricia, Eunice and Teddy) told Coughlan. "We can't eat ice cream, for instance." But Teddy, she added, always has seconds.

THE ASSASSINATION
The day after JFK was killed, his mother, accompanied by state officials, went to 7 a.m. mass in Hyannis Port. "When I heard he was shot, I never thought it would be serious," she told Coughlan.

THREE GENERATIONS

THREE FACES OF GRIEF
Ted, Rose and Jackie, at the 1964 requiem mass for JFK. "I don't want Teddy to be President," Rose told Coughlan. "I couldn't stand another loss."

Born in 1890, Rose, the oldest of six, grew up with politics, often campaigning with her father, John "Honey Fitz" Fitzgerald, the mayor of Boston. In 1914 she married Joe Kennedy, an investor and stockbroker who went on to make a fortune on Wall Street. "It was not a romance you would make a Hollywood film of," says Leamer. "It was a calculated political enterprise."

While Joe pursued success, "he expected me to deal with the different components of the household," Rose tells Coughlan. She dealt firmly if not warmly, keeping her children's appointments, illnesses and even their weight on filed index cards. "We weighed them every Saturday night," she says on the tapes. "Not many of them gained much weight, but we watched that." And she didn't spare the rod. "The children used to be whacked with a ruler occasionally, or a coat hanger," she says. "They wouldn't behave at the table, or they made too much noise, little things."

'After Teddy was born, Rose got her own bedroom, so to speak. I don't think a woman should do that'
—JOE'S MISTRESS JANET FONTAINE

A devout Catholic wife and mother, Rose did have a life outside the family, one that involved a month-long trip each year to buy couture in Paris. While Joe had numerous affairs during their 55-year marriage (including trysts with Gloria Swanson and Marlene Dietrich), Rose, notes Leamer, "saw everything and acknowledged nothing." Among Joe's lovers was his assistant Janet Fontaine, now 91, who confirms Leamer's view that Rose's eyes were open. "Oh, I am sure she knew," says Fontaine, whose nine-year affair with Kennedy began when she was 24 and he, she says, "a young 60." Rose, Fontaine insists, "was grateful to have me there knowing she could leave her husband and he was being looked after. I don't mean just sexually—as a companion."

Rose doesn't directly address her husband's infidelities in the taped interviews, though she does say she warned her three daughters-in-law, Jackie, Ethel and Joan, that "there would be rumors" and implies they should ignore them. Says Leamer: "She had the Catholic way of not seeing what she didn't want to see."

Those blinders, Leamer contends, meant that she and Joe "never talked about what is emotionally important, and that begins with Rosemary." Of the 1941 lobotomy that left her daughter with the mental capacity of a toddler, Rose tells Coughlan only, "Rosemary's mind is gone completely. That was due to an accident, which I don't really discuss." Says Leamer: "It was so painful, she couldn't deal with it. And that is the key—she tries to teach others to get up and go on."

"It would be selfish and demoralizing to focus on our tragedies," Rose says on the tapes. "When the children come home, we try not to talk about [them]. There was a saying after Jack died, for the grandchildren, no crying in the house. If you cry, you'll be sent back to wherever you come from. I insisted on that."

It was the only way she knew—along with reading the Greek tragedies, she tells Coughlan—to survive losses so devastating that her glittering family came to seem cursed. "We met presidents and dukes, kings and queens," Rose says. "We had money, talent and relationships with one another; we boasted of good looks. I'm not surprised when some tragedy came. . . . It was too perfect to last." ●

SCOTT BAKULA

Putting My Family First

THE BUSY NCIS: NEW ORLEANS STAR WORKS TO MAKE TIME FOR HIS WIFE AND 4 KIDS

By PATRICK GOMEZ

Scott Bakula has a lot to be grateful for—a 40-year career in entertainment, four healthy children, a happy marriage. But right now what he really appreciates is the air-conditioning. "It's been superhot," the NCIS: New Orleans star says from his climate-controlled trailer in Louisiana, where he's spent the last five months filming the second season of his top-rated CBS drama. Shooting the crime procedural, set against the backdrop of the Navy's NOLA outpost, has meant that in addition to busting bad guys, his character, Special Agent Dwayne "King" Pride, has also played piano in dive bars and waded through a swamp. "It's very physically demanding," the 61-year-old star concedes with a laugh. "I'm lucky my body and mind are still in good shape."

So is his career. More than 25 years since he first rose to fame with high-profile roles on Quantum Leap and, later, Star Trek: Enterprise,

"I'm crazy about the music down here," Bakula says of New Orleans. "I'd love to sing in one of the clubs."

"I like that he's got flaws," Bakula (on-set with costar Shalita Grant) says of his NCIS: NOLA character.

"Chelsea is amazingly present and has taught me a lot about relationships and spirituality," Bakula (left, on Quantum Leap) says of his wife (above, at the Primetime Emmy Awards in 2014).

Bakula is currently celebrating another hit (NCIS: NOLA regularly boasts more than 15 million viewers) and renewed sex-symbol status. "In many ways I'm in better all-around shape than I was in my 40s," Bakula says, before adding, "If that wasn't the case, maybe I'd go away."

But for Bakula, who first fell in love with performing as a 13-year-old singing in his St. Louis church's Christmas pageant, the chance to chase his dream has always been irresistible. When he was first starting out in the 1970s, "acting wasn't thought of as a viable career path," he says. He headed off to college and planned to become a lawyer like his dad until he booked a national tour of Godspell and dropped out. When the tour fell through, "suddenly I was sitting at the dinner table, staring at my dad, wondering what I was going to do with my life."

Yet Bakula persisted, and after forging a stable career in the New York City theater scene, he moved his family—then-wife Krista Neumann and their daughter Chelsy, now 31—to L.A., where he began to land high-profile roles. Success, however, brought its own set of challenges. In 1988 he scored the lead in the time-traveling series Quantum Leap, but Bakula admits that meant he was "hardly ever home for four and a half seasons." His marriage to Neumann, with whom he also had a son, Cody, 24, ended in 1995. "It took me a long time to work out my feelings about our relationship," he says, adding that his biggest regret from that time is missing Chelsy's "formative years."

'I'm very lucky. I can't deny that. Most people don't get the experiences I have'
–SCOTT BAKULA

So when he signed on to headline Star Trek: Enterprise in 2001, "I had it put in my contract that I would be done every Wednesday at 6 so I could be home for dinner," says Bakula, who by then was also father of sons Wil and Owen, now 20 and 16, with his second wife, actress Chelsea Fields. "And I made time to coach their soccer and baseball teams."

Even now that most of his kids are grown, Bakula flies home from New Orleans to spend weekends with Chelsea, whom he wed six years ago after 15 years of dating. "It takes energy and focus," he says of having a successful marriage. "We work hard to stay present in the relationship."

Bakula enjoys doing theater projects with his wife, and he'd love more time to pursue music. But the actor has no plans to step away from the spotlight anytime soon. "In my business you don't have to retire until people stop hiring you or you get bored," he says. "And I have a lot more I want to do." ●

My American Dream

GREAT SUCCESS AGAINST THE ODDS

ZUMBA FOUNDER AND CEO
Beto Perez

GROWING UP in Colombia, Alberto "Beto" Perez, 45, dreamed of two things. "I wanted to rule the world," he says, "and I wanted to dance." Perez has done both with his fitness program Zumba. With 15 million people taking weekly classes in 180 countries, he's made Zumba a multimillion-dollar brand. "It started small," says Perez, "but it has succeeded beyond my wildest dreams."

Unlikely inspiration

In 1978 Perez went with his single mom to see the movie Grease. Watching John Travolta's character Danny dance across the screen mesmerized Perez—and gave the 8-year-old his life's purpose: "I thought, 'I want to do that.' I was born to dance."

A teen on his own

By age 15, Perez was working odd jobs to help support himself and his mother, who worked as a waitress. Crying, his mother told him she planned to move to America, leaving him behind while she tried to make a better life for them both. "I told her, 'Mom, go. Don't worry,'" he remembers. He lived on his own until he reunited with his mother in America when he was 29.

Seizing opportunities

While he was living in Colombia in the mid-'90s, Perez was asked by an aerobics-instructor friend to fill in and teach a class. To prepare, he borrowed a Jane Fonda workout book. "During class I peeked at the book for the next move," he says. He began teaching regularly, and one day he forgot his regular music CDs. "All I had with me was Latin music," he says, "and the class loved it." Perez moved to Miami in 1999 and soon began selling exercise DVDs. In 2001 he trademarked the name Zumba. "It doesn't mean anything," he says, "but it was fun and easy to remember."

Making music

Zumba's music became popular, so Perez began promoting emerging artists and releasing their music. (Fans include Jennifer Lopez, Shakira and Pitbull.) Says Perez: "The music is for people of all ages and races. It's to make everyone happy."

Giving back

Perez's charitable foundation Zumba Move to Give raises millions for cancer and ALS research. "I've been blessed to be successful," Perez says. "To show my gratitude to God, I need to help others."

—STEVE HELLING

1971 GROWING UP POOR
"We didn't have much," he says of his childhood in Colombia. "But I was always happy."

1980 A MOTHER'S LOVE
"My mother always supported me," says Perez. "We're still very close to each other."

MAY 2003 DANCING TO FITNESS
"Zumba should be fun," says Perez. "The point isn't to be skinny—it's to be healthy and happy."

SEIZE THE DAY
Based in Miami, Perez says that besides dancing, his passion is traveling around the world. "Each day is different," he says. "I don't ever want to be bored."

THE STORY BEHIND SPOTLIGHT

Exposing Predator Priests

BOSTON GLOBE REPORTERS UNCOVERED A MONSTROUS EVIL. NOW THEIR STORY HAS OSCAR BUZZ

It was a headline that rocked the Catholic Church—and shocked the world: "Church Allowed Abuse by Priest for Years." The Boston Globe's Jan. 6, 2002, front-page article detailed how priest John Geoghan had sexually abused more than 130 young boys in different area parishes for more than three decades. The newspaper went on to prove that church officials, including Cardinal Bernard Law, knew about the abuse by Geoghan and other priests and had covered it up. "This was a gigantic betrayal," says reporter Michael Rezendes, who spent more than five months reporting the story with the Globe's Spotlight investigations team, Matt Carroll, Sacha Pfeiffer and editor Walter Robinson. Legal Notice

If You Bought or Leased a New Motor Vehicle, or Bought Certain Replacement Parts for a Motor Vehicle Since 2000

You Could Get Money From Settlements Totaling Approximately $54 Million

Two Defendants and their affiliates ("Settling Defendants") have agreed to Settlements resolving claims that they fixed the price of certain motor vehicle components. This may have caused individuals and businesses to pay more for new motor vehicles and certain replacement parts. The Settling Defendants deny any claims of wrongdoing.

Am I included?

You may be included if, from 2000 to 2015, you: (1) bought or leased an eligible new vehicle in the U.S. (not for resale), or (2) indirectly paid for an eligible motor vehicle replacement part. Indirectly means you bought the replacement part from someone other than the manufacturer of the part. Eligible new motor vehicles are automobiles, light trucks, vans, mini-vans, and sport utility vehicles. Visit the website, www.AutoPartsClass.com or call 1-877-940-5043 for a full list of Settling Defendants and time periods.

What do the Settlements provide?

The Settlements provide money for consumers in 30 states and the District of Columbia as well as non-monetary relief, including cooperation, and an agreement by Settling Defendants not to engage in certain conduct for a period of 24 months.

The 30 states are: Arizona, Arkansas, California, Florida, Hawaii, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

How can I get a payment?

No money will be distributed yet. Class Counsel will pursue the lawsuits against the Non-Settling Defendants. All funds received in this case will be distributed at the conclusion of the lawsuits or as ordered by the Court. You will need to file a valid claim to receive a payment. Notice about the claims process will be provided at a later date.

If you want to receive notice about the claims process or future settlements, you should register at www.AutoPartsClass.com.

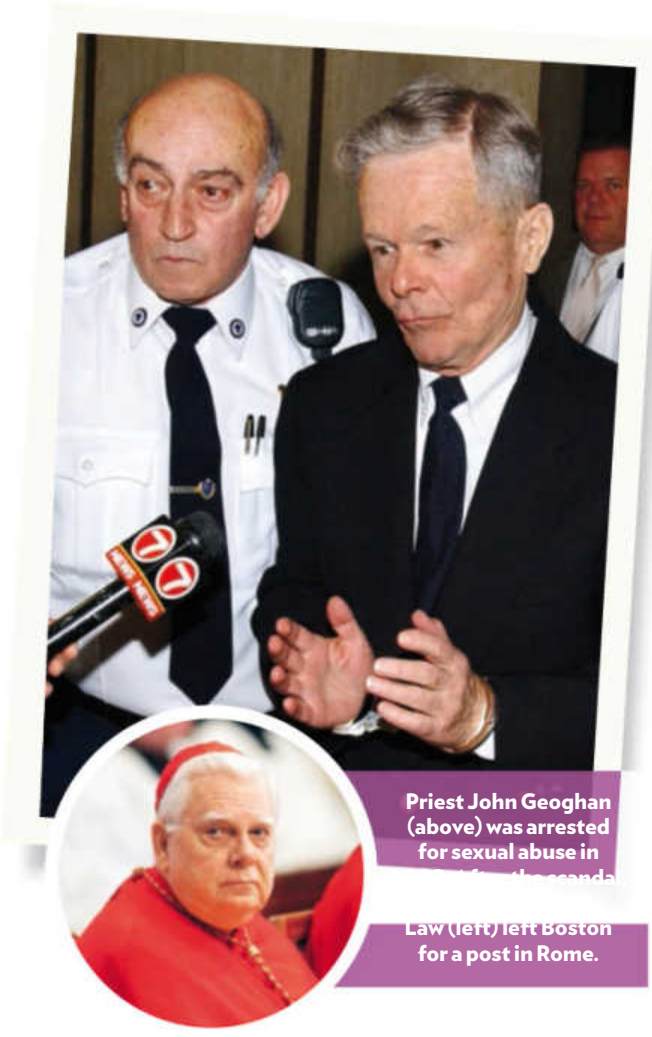

What are my rights?

Even if you do nothing, you will be bound by the Court's decisions concerning these Settlements. If you want to keep your right to sue the Settling Defendants regarding a particular component part, you must exclude yourself from that Settlement Class by March 28, 2016. If you stay in a Settlement Class, you may object to one or more of the Settlements by March 28, 2016.

The Court will hold a hearing on May 4, 2016 to consider whether to approve the Settlements and approve Class Counsel's request that up to $2 million be set aside for future litigation costs and expenses. Class Counsel will also request at the hearing, or at a later date, attorneys' fees of up to one-third of the Settlement funds, plus reimbursement of costs and expenses. You or your own lawyer may appear and speak at the hearing at your own expense.

If the cases are not dismissed or settled, Class Counsel will have to prove their claims against the Non-Settling Defendants at trial. Trial has not been set yet.

the most moral institution knowingly allowing priests to systematically rape children and destroy their lives. This was an awful, horrific thing that needed to be revealed and corrected."

The new movie Spotlight, winning buzz as an Oscar front-runner, shows how the reporters doggedly uncovered the clergy-abuse scandal. Mark Ruffalo, who plays Rezendes, says the subject hit home for him. "I was raised Catholic but didn't have a good experience with it," he says. "I believed in the teachings of Christ and looking out for the small people. But I didn't see that culture being fostered in my Catholic school." Now that Popes Benedict and Francis have apologized to victims, it's time to remind people of the pain and courage it took to expose the crimes, Ruffalo says: "The environment is right to have this story make an impact."

'It was like a dam bursting. There were all these victims realizing they weren't alone'
—REPORTER MIKE REZENDES

The Spotlight team discovered that more than 70 priests in Boston had molested children over decades (the number would eventually reach almost 250), and the archdiocese covered up their crimes by reassigning priests and making secret settlements with victims. The reporters feared a backlash from a city deeply rooted in Catholicism but instead found an outpouring of gratitude. "Phones started to ring and ring and ring. It was like a dam bursting," says Rezendes. "There were all these victims realizing they weren't alone." Cardinal Law resigned as archbishop of Boston in late 2002, and Geoghan, sentenced to 9 to 10 years in prison, was murdered in 2003 by another inmate. The Globe won a Pulitzer Prize as more abuse came to light worldwide and the Vatican instituted reforms. Says Robinson: "When people say, 'What happened as a result of what you did?' sometimes I turn that around and say, 'Think what didn't happen.' What didn't happen is that countless numbers of children were not abused. We are in this business to make a difference."

WALKER STERN & JOE OGRODNEK

Butternut Squash Crostini

THE CHEFS AND AUTHORS OF THE BATTERSBY COOKBOOK OFFER A TASTY BITE SERVED AT DOVER, THEIR BROOKLYN RESTAURANT

- 2½ tbsp. olive oil, divided
- 1 tbsp. unsalted butter
- 1 cup chopped butternut squash
- Kosher salt
- Freshly ground black pepper
- 5 thin baguette slices
- ½ cup ricotta cheese
- ¼ tsp. lemon zest
- ⅛ cup chopped toasted walnuts
- 1 tbsp. honey
- 1 tbsp. chopped flat-leaf parsley

1. Heat 1 tbsp. oil and butter in a medium pan over medium heat. When the butter has melted, add the squash, season with salt and pepper, and cook, stirring occasionally, until soft and golden brown but still holding its shape, 8 to 10 minutes. Transfer the squash to paper towels to cool to room temperature.

2. Preheat the broiler. Place the bread on a baking sheet and drizzle with 1 tbsp. oil. Toast under the broiler until the bread is lightly golden brown, 2 to 3 minutes.

3. In a small bowl, mix together the ricotta, remaining ½ tbsp. oil and lemon zest, and season with salt and pepper.

4. Spread the ricotta mixture on the cooled baguette slices. Top with the squash and walnuts, and drizzle with honey. Sprinkle with parsley, a little salt and a few grinds of pepper.

Makes: 5 pieces
Prep time: 10 minutes
Cook time: 13 minutes

Expert Tip!
For a spicy kick, add a pinch of cayenne pepper to the butternut squash before cooking, suggest Stern and Ogrodnek.

BROOKE BURKE-CHARVET

Brisket with Carrots & Mushrooms

THE HOST OF BREAKING BREAD WITH BROOKE BURKE SHARES A HEARTY, RUSTIC DISH

- ½ tbsp. cracked black peppercorns
- 1 packet powdered onion soup
- 3 lbs. beef shoulder roast
- 8 cloves garlic, peeled
- 1 lb. carrots, sliced into 2-in. pieces
- 1 sweet onion, sliced
- 4 oz. sliced mushroom medley
- Chopped flat-leaf parsley

1. Preheat oven to 350°. In a small bowl, combine peppercorns and 2 tbsp. onion soup powder; save or discard remaining soup mix. Using a paring knife, make 8 small slits all over the beef and stuff each hole with a garlic clove. Rub the peppercorn mixture on the brisket.
2. Combine carrots, onions and mushrooms in a 9x13-in. baking dish. Place the brisket on top and cover tightly with aluminum foil.
3. Bake for 1 hour, then lower temperature to 325° and cook for another hour. Lower oven to 300° and cook for 2 more hours until meat is tender. To serve, slice the brisket across the grain and sprinkle with parsley.
Serves: 6-8
Prep time: 10 minutes
Cook time: 4 hours

Watch new episodes of Breaking Bread with Brooke Burke on Fridays on feeln.com.

Expert Tip!
For a complete one-dish meal, add ¾ cup beef broth and ½ lb. red new potatoes (cut in half) to the dish before baking.

LISA & DR. MEHMET OZ

Lemon & Scallion Salmon

THE HEALTH-CONSCIOUS COUPLE MAKE A PROTEIN-PACKED MEAL FROM LISA'S COOKBOOK THE OZ FAMILY KITCHEN

Expert Tip!
Add salmon to your weekly meal plan. 'It's an ideal source of omega-3 fatty acids, which can help reduce inflammation and improve heart health,' says Lisa.

- 2 scallions (white and green parts), finely chopped
- ¼ cup extra-virgin olive oil
- 1 tbsp. fresh lemon juice
- 1 tbsp. honey
- 1 tsp. tamari
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 4 (7-oz.) salmon fillets with skin
- Sea salt
- Freshly ground black pepper
- Sliced lemon wheels, for garnish (optional)

1. Position a rack in the center of the oven and preheat the oven to 400°.
2. Whisk the scallions, oil, lemon juice, honey, tamari and garlic together in a small bowl. Pour the marinade into a large zip-top plastic bag. Add the salmon, and turn to coat with the marinade. Let the salmon stand at room temperature for 15 to 30 minutes.
3. Remove the salmon from the marinade, and arrange the fillets skin-side-up in an ovenproof pan or baking dish large enough to hold the salmon in a single layer. Using a slotted spoon, scatter the scallions and garlic from the marinade over the salmon. Season the fillets with salt and pepper, and add the lemon wheels. Bake just until opaque with a rosy center when flaked in the thickest part with the tip of a knife, about 15 minutes for medium-rare.

TALKING BUBBLE BATHS & BAD HAIR DAYS WITH

Mariah Carey

PLUS, WHY YOU'LL NEVER SEE THE SINGER WEARING RED LIPSTICK

Congratulations on your new lipstick collaboration with M.A.C Cosmetics! It's such an honor. The lipstick "All I Want" is the first thing people are going to see (her M.A.C Mariah Carey Beauty Icon line launches in 2016). I love the frost [finish]. I hate a red lip on me. Every time somebody puts red lipstick on me, it's a disaster.

We love the name "All I Want." Tell us: What do you want on a Friday night? Probably to watch Scandal from the night before, with no interruptions!

What do you want after any long day? A bath where no one's banging on the door [yelling], "Mommy!" It used to be my private time, and now it's not, but that's okay. I'll often take a bath in a bathing suit knowing that I'm going to have to let [my children] in.

What do you want your children [4 year olds Monroe and Moroccan] to grow up to be? Happy. And hopefully successful and to have a good work ethic. They're growing up with me as their mom, but I need to make them learn that they don't just get things handed to them.

What are the qualities you want most in a partner? I used to say a sense of humor. I think that's important, but I think that a caring and generous spirit is very important as well.

What's the best thing about being in your 40s? I think I have to remain eternally oblivious to age. Honestly, when you put a number on it yourself, it's just like, Why? Why do that?

Do you have a beauty philosophy? Keep it together. I got that from Eddie Murphy in Bowfinger.

You went to beauty school. What tips do you still use? We learned so many things, like how to tweeze our eyebrows. I do my own.

Do you ever have a bad hair day? I do, and then I apply my 500 hours of beauty school. If it's really bad, I'll slick it back and put it in a bun.

What's the most surprising item on your vanity? My own cream that I worked on when I was pregnant that I probably will be releasing at some point. I don't want to go into it, but it's amazing.

You must indulge in the most luxe treatments. Not really—I don't get that much time for self-pampering.

Then what's your splurge? Professional hair and makeup teams. They're not cheap, but they make you feel good.

She shares a glam moment on Instagram wearing one of her go-to dress silhouettes. "I like the mermaid [style]. It seems to work well for me."

The pop star wants her twins (seen here with her in August) "to be the best people that they can be" when they grow up.

People babies

Introducing
Brayden James
BORN
Aug. 20, 2015

"I love having a baby," says Christina El Moussa (with husband Tarek and kids Taylor and Brayden). "I'm obsessed!"

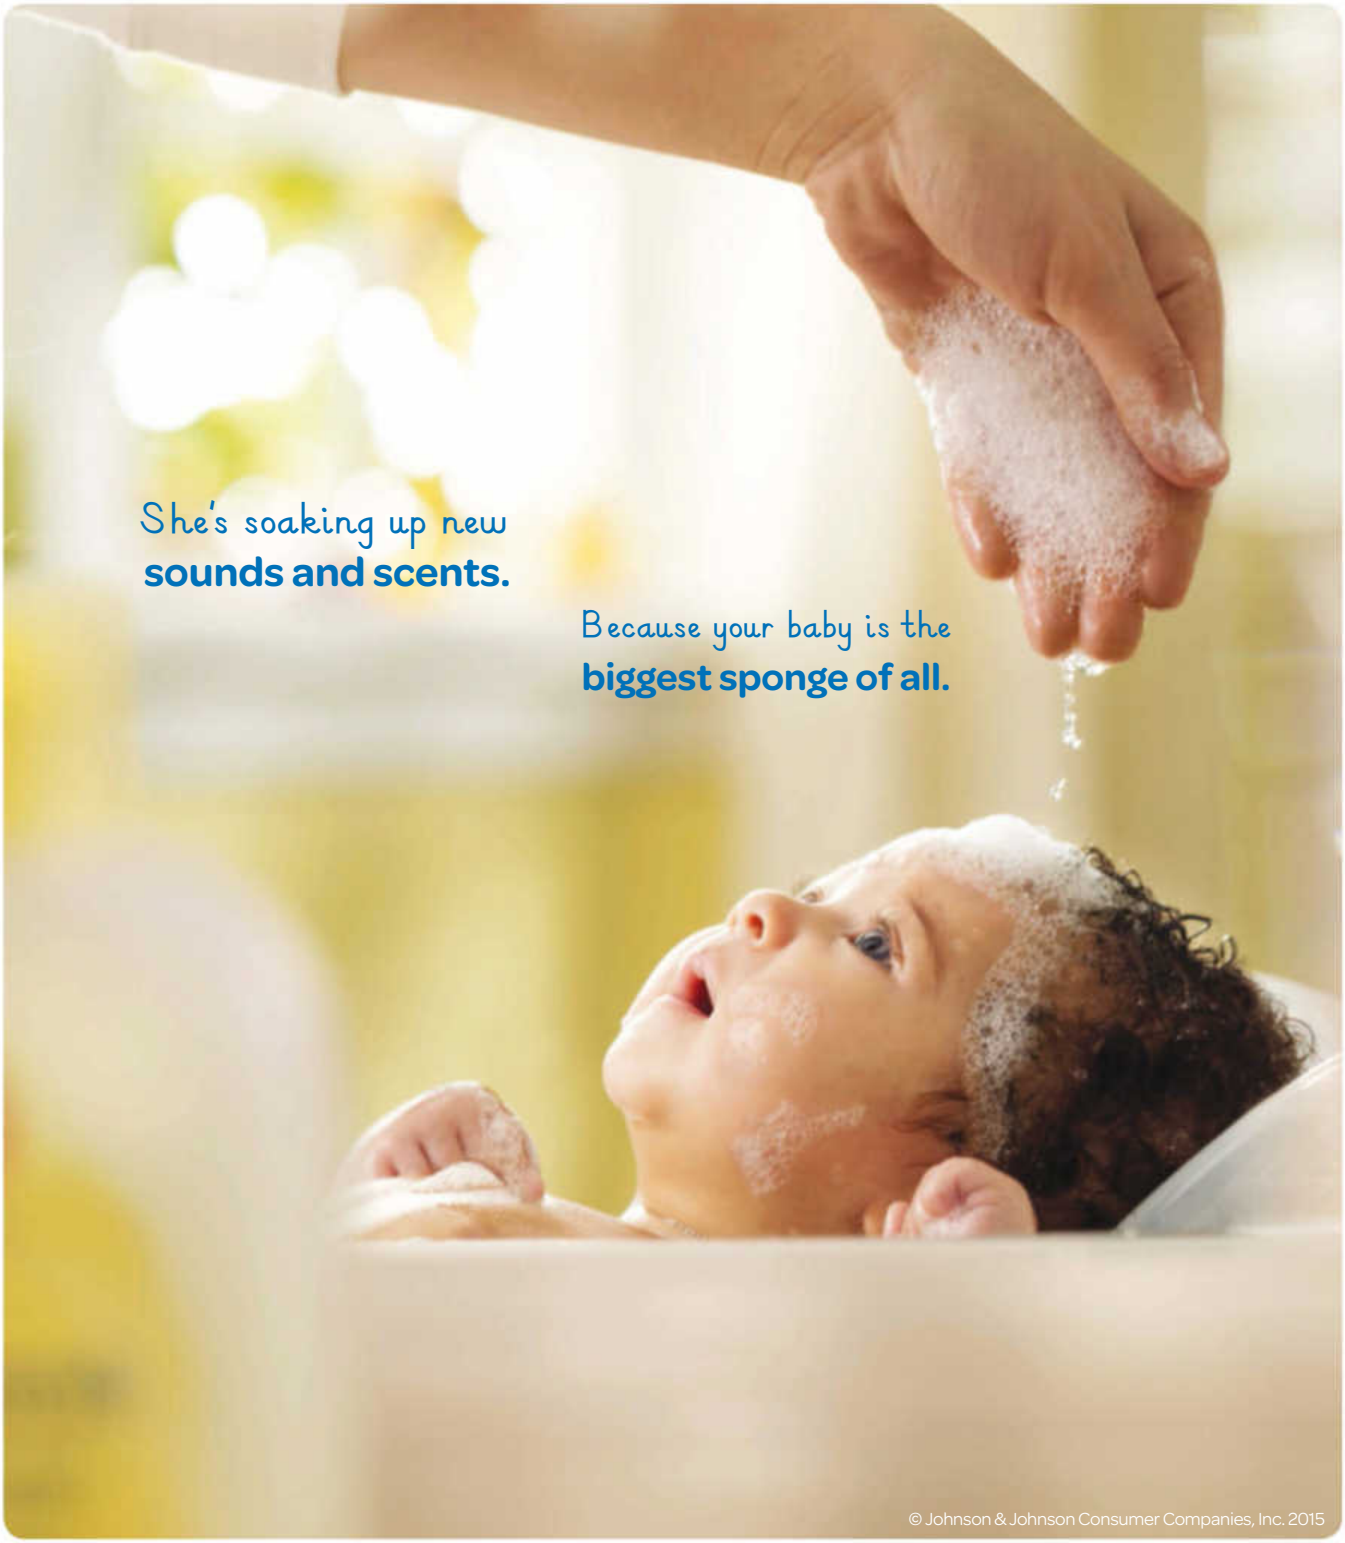

HGTV STARS TAREK & CHRISTINA EL MOUSSA

Meet Our Sweet Son

When Christina El Moussa saw the look on her husband Tarek's face the first time he held their newborn son Brayden, she was overwhelmed with emotion. "It was so sweet and it was so worth it," says Christina, 32, of the couple's difficult journey to pregnancy. "I have never seen Tarek light up like that." The real estate gurus—who cohost Flip or Flop on HGTV—are already parents to daughter Taylor, 5, but then endured two failed attempts at IVF and a miscarriage at eight weeks, all while Tarek, 34, was fighting for his life after a thyroid cancer diagnosis. "The last three years have been a challenge," says Tarek, who is now in remission after undergoing surgery and radioactive iodine therapy. Since welcoming their son in August via emergency C-section, the couple have been cherishing every moment. "We decorated his room in a vintage baseball theme because Tarek thinks that he's going to be in the major league," says Christina. And while Taylor is definitely a "mama's girl," Brayden is a mini version of his dad. "I call him my 'sweet Tarek' because he looks exactly like his dad and is superchill," says Christina. "He is my happy baby." —EMILY STROHM

THE ACTOR, 39, STARS ON THE NEW FOX COMEDY SERIES THE GRINDER

Last vacation
My wife, Jennifer, and I took our kids [Oliver, 9, Lily, 7, and August, 3] on an overnight trip to Malibu. It's only about 45 minutes from where we live, but it felt like a different world. I had to sleep on a chair, but I felt so refreshed after getting away.

Last thing I lost
I lose everything, and I'm terrible at finding it. My wife always makes fun of me because whatever I'm looking for, if it's not in my direct eyesight, it's a lost cause.

Last concert
I took my kids with me to see Broncho at the FYF Fest. It was terrific, but they kept asking why the cigarette smoke smelled like skunks.

Last splurge
I enjoy cycling, so I got a Cannondale road bike. It's a nice setup. I figured if I really splurged on it, I'd be so guilt-ridden that I'd have to exercise.

Last gift I received
I'm obsessed with learning to build the perfect fire. I chopped my own kindling to make my first one, and my daughter gave me three pieces of her Halloween candy as a thank-you. There is no more precious currency to my children.
